UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Isso Much of Registration Law as Requires Certificates.

Cannot Compel Voters to Present Them to be Entitled to Vote.

In an opinion handed down by special Judge W. H. Mackoy at Covington last Friday, it is held that so much of the new registration law as requires certificates to be issued by the officers holding the registration to each one who registers and the presentation of them by the voters to the election officers before such voters are entitled to cast their ballots was declared in conflict with the constitution, and therefore null and void.

The court does not hold that voters of all towns cannot be required to register but they are not compelled to procure a certificate of registration and present it to the election officers. The case however will be appealed to the Court of Appeals and the whole matter may be reversed. The Court's opinion in part is as follows:

With reference to the act under consideration, I am of the opinion that the provision with reference to the issuing of a certificate to the voter which he is required to present when he offers to vote, without the presentation of which to the officers of election he cannot vote, does not come within the meaning of the word, "registration," as that word or term is used in laws relating to elections, nor generally would the issuing of a certificate be a part of that which is required to be done by registration. The issuing of a certificate to the person who registers in no way serves the purpose intended to be accomplished by the registration of voters. The certificate remains in the possession of the registered voter unless he loses it, and cannot offer any aid, either to the officers of the election, nor to the public, nor interested persons, in determining in advance of the election who is entitled to vote. The requirement that the voter shall present a certificate of the fact that he is registered is the imposing of another qualification upon the voter not prescribed by the Constitution, and is a limitation upon his right to vote. It is in no sense a reasonable regulation of the right of suffrage and if the voter should happen to lose his certificate, the burden is imposed upon him of obtaining a duplicate thereof, and of paying therefor the sum provided in the act before he can exercise the privilege of voting.

The Constitution itself in Section 145 fixes the qualifications for a voter and provides who shall vote. The act under consideration disqualifies a person from voting who loses a certificate, and if he would exercise the privilege of voting he must then pay a stipulated sum in order that he may vote.

I am clearly of the opinion that the act under consideration is unconstitutional. There are other reasons which might be given, but it would make this opinion of undue length, and as this case is to be determined by the Court of Appeals, it is not necessary that I should consider the question further. I have merely stated briefly the reasons which constrain me in holding that the act is unconstitutional.

Maddox-Roe.

At 7:30 o'clock p. m. Wednesday, September 21, in the Baptist church of Springfield, Tenn., Rev. Otis P. Maddox was united in marriage to Miss Effie Mae Roe, of that city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. R. Acree, of Clarksville, Tenn. After the nuptial rites they were accompanied by Miss Ida Roe, a sister of the bride, to the groom's former home near Rockport, this county, where they will visit for a few days. They will also visit the World's Fair during their honeymoon. At the opening of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, in Louisville, both will enter that institution from which

Rev. Maddox will graduate at the close of the session. He has had very successful pastorates in Tennessee for a number of years, since graduating from Bethel College, at Russellville, Ky.

At 11 o'clock, a. m., next Sunday, at his old home church, West Providence, near Rockport, this county, Rev. Maddox will preach from the text, Philippians III, 20-21: "For our citizenship (i. e.) is in heaven, from whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself."

DOWIE'S NEW TITLE.

First Apostle of the Christian Catholic Church.

Wearing a Rich Robe and Miter, He Proclaims His Apostleship.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Wearing a rich robe and miter modeled after those of an ancient Jewish high priest, John Alexander Dowie has proclaimed himself "John Alexander, First Apostle of the Christian Catholic Church."

The announcement was made in the tabernacle at Zion City, where 7,000 people had assembled.

Dr. Dowie referred to the robes in assuming the office. After quoting scripture in support of the claim he had made to the title of first apostle he said: "I did not create the office. It was created by the Lord. I didn't create it any more than I designated these robes. If you are in doubt as to my authority to wear them, you will find it in the twentieth chapter of Exodus, the pattern given by God to Moses when the high priesthood was established."

Dr. Dowie wore a long garment of heavy white satin, lined with white silk. Over this was a purple satin robe, fringed with gilt, of knee length. The "brodered coat," the richest feature of the costume, was of white satin, embroidered with geometrical patterns in purple and gold, the colors of the church.

The girdle was there with historical accuracy, but on the breastplate instead of the twelve jewels prescribed by the Jewish ritual was embroidered a scarlet cross edged with gold. Dowie's head dress consisted of a white silk miter, or turban, ornamented with two purple bands. White silk hose and white canvas shoes completed the costume.

"The office of First apostle is perpetual," said Dowie after he had read several long passages from scripture. "It should have been continued. Successor to the original twelve were chosen to the number of nine to fill vacancies caused by martyrdom or death. My assumption of the first apostleship is the final step in the organization of the church, as planned by Jesus Christ."

SUICIDE OF CHILDREN.

German Scientist Making Study of a Complex Question.

Berlin, Sept. 19.—Professor Eulenberg, a distinguished medical authority, has been engaged in studying the question of suicide among school children of both sexes. No fewer than 950 cases of suicide of this kind have occurred in Germany during the period from 1883 to 1900.

Professor Eulenberg, who does not appear to have formed a definite conclusion for himself, has opened up the field for an interesting discussion as to whether the greater share of the responsibility for these premature deaths is to be ascribed to the home with its incalculable influence and with the unknown quantity of hereditary tendencies, or the school, with the "native conservatism" which still characterizes many educational methods in Germany.

INTENDED ROBBERY.

Hartford Visited by a Band of Marauders—cited by Three Young Ladies.

Last Saturday night at about eleven o'clock the citizens of Hartford were summoned to the residence of Mrs. Mary Collins by the cries of help, murder, robbery, etc. When the ladies had sufficiently recovered from their fright they told of how some one had attempted to gain entrance to the house by forcing the dining-room door and later five marauders were seen in the yard watching every movement of the young ladies, Misses Annie and Kittie Collins and Golda Mosley, who were packing their trunks and grips preparatory for their departure the next day, Miss Annie and Miss Golda going to Louisville and Miss Kittie to Indianapolis.

It is supposed that these marauders intended robbery as there was considerable money in the house at the time. They were frightened away by the cries of the ladies before any one else reached the house and have not been seen nor heard of since. It is however rumored that a gang of about the same number of men were seen on the street acting rather suspiciously a short while before they were detected at Mrs. Collins residence and the rumor seems very plausible and it may be true that they or some of them had been in Hartford during the afternoon of Saturday for it was then that most of the money was drawn from the bank by some one of the young ladies.

NOT GUILTY IS VERDICT.

In Case of Callahan and French, Charged With Subornation of Perjury.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 19.—After being out for seven hours, the jury in the case of Ed Callahan and B. F. French, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with the trial of Curtis Jett and Tom White for the murder of James B. Marcum, returned a verdict of not guilty, and the defendants were dismissed.

When the jury first retired to the jury room the members were divided on the merits of the case, eight standing for acquittal and four for conviction. It is not known how the verdict of acquittal was finally reached, and none of the jurors will talk.

These parties were charged with having by means of threats and bribes procured a man by the name of Adams to swear in the Jett-White trial last summer that Jett was on the streets of Jackson when J. B. Marcum was killed. It afterwards developed that Adams was not in Jackson at the time but was at his home six or seven miles away.

WAS PATHETIC SCENE

When Armer Was Brought in Court at Calhoun.

Held For The First Time His Young Baby.—Large Crowd Was Affected.

No more touching scene has, perhaps ever occurred in Kentucky than that which took place in the Circuit court room at Calhoun Tuesday afternoon when W. W. Armer, the preacher who is charged with the murder of his son, was brought into the court room, haggard from long incarceration fatigued and covered with dust from the long drive from Owensboro to Calhoun and the center of attraction of a curious crowd gathered about the court house. Armer entered the court room at 5 o'clock, handcuffed and in charge of Sheriff Henry, of McLean county.

As the two walked up the aisle toward the enclosed space around the Judge's stand, a sob came from the woman seated on the front bench with three children around her and a babe of a few months in her arms. Armer recognized his wife, and for the first time since the commission of his horrible deed, his apparent indifference to circumstances disappeared and his self-control broke down completely.

Armer had never before beheld the infant which his wife held in her arms. It was born a few days after he was spirited away from Calhoun and taken to Owensboro for safe-keeping. The child was laid in his arms and, holding it to his breast, he knelt on the court room floor. With his wife and children in a half-circle about him he began a plaintive prayer which continued for several minutes. As he invoked the blessing of Almighty God upon his family and upon himself the crowd, notwithstanding the fact that it was composed largely of men who would gladly see the preacher hanged, became affected by the pathos of the scene. Strong men trembled and sobbed. The court officials ceased their work and stood with bowed heads.

"Pe-ru-na is an Excellent Medicine."

J. H. HIPPLEGATE, Supt. of Public Works, 61 West 6th St., Lexington, Ky., writes:

"I find that Peruna is an excellent medicine especially for catarrhal affections and all diseases leading to consumption, bronchial troubles or stomach troubles. It also acts as a preventative and keeps the system in a healthy condition so that it easily throws off disease. It is an excellent tonic and a great appetizer and as a large number of those who have been using it speak very highly of its curative powers, I am satisfied that my opinion of it is correct, and that it is deserving of high praise."

—J. H. Hipplegate.

Peruna is the remedy for catarrh. Almost everybody knows that by hearsay and thousands know it by experience. Catarrh in its various forms is rapidly becoming a national curse. An undoubted remedy has been discovered by Dr. Hartman. This remedy has been thoroughly tested during the past forty years. Peruna cures catarrh in all phases and stages. There is no remedy that can be substituted.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

for every 25 votes or fraction over 12 votes cast for President Roosevelt on November 8, 1904, and the candidate receiving a majority of the votes cast in said county convention shall be declared the nominee of the Republican party for said office.

POLITICAL REVIEW.

Why Reformers Should Vote the Republican Ticket This Year.

[To The Editor of The Herald.]
I believe that many good men believe that many new laws should be enacted. Many good voters believe that a new party should be placed in control of the country. It is my opinion that no new party can ever obtain control of the government so long as the Democratic party is an organization, nor can any great new beneficial measure ever be enacted into laws, except by the Republican party, while the danger of Democratic supremacy is imminent. I suppose to recite or call attention to some of the most important actions of the Democratic party in respect to vital questions for a number of years past in support of the two propositions above stated.

When the law authorizing the issue of the greenback legal tender money was enacted every Democrat in Congress present voted against it, and many of the leading Democrats made bitter speeches against the bill. The greenback money soon became popular with the people, and then the Democratic leaders generally assumed the championship of it. The party voted against the resumption law and in 1875 made the famous fight for Allen for Governor of Ohio on a greenback platform and for a repeal of the resumption law. It is believed that Allen would have been elected if leading Democrats had not taken the stump against him and otherwise labored for his defeat. He was only defeated by a few thousands votes. After Allen's defeat the party in the main abandoned and greenback issue, and the next year nominated Tilden for President, a known enemy of the greenback, on a platform denouncing the Republican party for not having resumed specie payment.

In 1884 the Democracy in national convention, said, "We believe in honest money, the gold and silver coinage of the Constitution," and nominated Cleveland, who was elected and, before his inauguration, issued a letter recommending the repeal of the Bland-Allison silver coinage law, which would have left no silver law in force. He also in his messages urged the repeal of said act and predicted dire results if his recommendations were not heeded. He failed during the first term to obtain the desired repeal, and the evils he predicted failed to come. The Democrats renominated him in 1888, but he was defeated. In 1892 there was a national convention held, but there were many State Democratic conventions held, and these conventions generally demanded the free coinage of silver. Not one State convention declared against free silver. The result was a sweeping Democratic victory in State and Congressional elections. When the congress then elected met in 1891-92 the Democrats were in the majority, and a free silver act was passed by the Senate and would have passed the House but for the Democratic opposition, which opposition was perhaps aided and increased by a letter written and published by Cleveland in opposition to the free silver act.

The Democratic State convention in this state in 1891 declared for free silver. It might seem passing strange after all the indorsement of silver by the Democratic party that it would in 1892 again nominate Cleveland, who was well known to be the most pronounced anti-silver man in the nation; but the party did so and placed him on a platform reading as follows:

"We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver, without discriminating against either metal, or charge for coinage."

Cleveland was elected, and he seems to have forgotten the horror of what his party called the robber tariff and all else in his zeal for the destruction of silver money. After a long struggle he succeeded. I shall not waste time in calling the attention of the financial distress and ruin that the Cleveland administration brought upon the country and also upon his own party. The election returns from the various States and Congressional elections in 1893, 1894 and 1895 attest the odium attending Cleveland's administration. The Democrats for a time in some State conventions indorsed Cleveland. By the close of the year 1895 every State North, East and West, had gone largely against the Democratic party. It had also lost several border States, including Missouri, Maryland and Kentucky. Indications seemed to point to an early extinction of the party. What then happened was the strangest event that ever occurred in party politics, viz: the party in national convention repudiated its own administration, and incidentally most of its great papers and leaders and declared for free silver nominated Mr. Bryan on substantially a Populist platform. Cleveland and the principal Democratic papers and many of the leaders bolted the ticket and procured Bryan's defeat. He was renominated in 1896 on the same platform, but was worse defeated than before, although some of the bolters of 1896 seemed to support him.

Whether the action taken in 1896 expressed the real views of the party or was taken to keep it alive and destroy the Populist party cannot be certainly known. It seems to some extent to have accomplished the two purposes. No candid man will now dispute the proposition that the Cleveland crowd is now in control of the Democratic organization and now have Bryan under their thumb. I was inclined to think in 1896 that Bryan was sincere. I presume others had the same opinion, but having no faith in the party behind him did not vote for him. Events have fully justified their course. If Bryan had been elected, and with him a Democratic Congress, still none of his reform measures would have been enacted into law for the reason that enough Democrats would have voted against the measures to defeat them. It is worthy of note that the Democratic platform of 1892 recommended the repeal of the 10 per cent. prohibitory taxes on state banks; yet, although the Democrats won on that, they failed to repeal it. Likely that was a good thing, by omission, but the object of that resolution was to checkmate the people's party demand for more money.

From the foregoing it is perfectly manifest that no reforms, not advocated by the Republican party, can be carried out by Democratic success since it is absurd to look to it for any relief. It was the Republican party that enacted the legal tender law of 1862, and by that law and the decision of the Republican Supreme Court established the legal fact that the law makes money without regard to the material of which it was composed. In other words, exploded the old idea that intrinsic value made money.

The Democrats are seeking to make capital on the imperial issue, or in opposition to the Government owing and governing provinces. It should never be forgotten that the Hawaiian Islands were annexed under a resolution or act offered by Mr. Newland, of Nevada, now a Democratic Senator from that State. It is well known that in 1897 and 1898 the Democrats were clamoring for intervention in behalf of Cuba and charging that McKinley and Hanna wanted to issue $400,000,000 bonds to buy Cuba from Spain. If such was their desire it would have been better and much cheaper than the war. I think it may be fairly charged that the Democratic party is responsible for the Spanish War, and therefore responsible for our ownership of the Philippine Islands, hence they are estopped from prating about the Philippines.

I notice that the Democratic nominee for Vice President is in his eighty first year. I have never seen it claimed that he voted for Bryan. About two years ago the Democrats in this Appellate district were seriously and generally, and I must add effectively, arguing that the Republican candidate for Appellate Judge, then in his seventieth year, was too old; but now they support a man for the second highest office in the nation who is nearly eighty-one years old. If elected he will be the presiding officer of the Senate, and his rulings would often determine the fate of a bill. He might defeat the most beneficent of measures or procure the passage of the most vicious of laws, and besides all this he might become President. Just think of a feeble old man having such power. I notice that Judge Parker in his acceptance speech, announces the doctrine that the common law affords a complete remedy against monopolies. This announcement is in conflict with the opinion of Congress and many State Legislatures, which have passed statutes seeking to check or restrain monopolies. It is contrary to the opinion of the Democratic Court of Appeals of Kentucky, which court like that of New York, is the court of last resort. Prior to June, 1899, certain insurance companies had, as was alleged, formed a combination to stifle competition and increase the cost of fire insurance. The companies were indicted in the Franklin Circuit court, tried, convicted and fined. The Circuit Judge (Cantrill) holding that under the common law the defendants were guilty. The defendants appealed, and the Kentucky Court of Appeals, composed of four Democrats and three Republicans—I being one of the three—held that defendants could not be punished, there being no statute prescribing a punishment, and the common law not reaching the case, six of the seven Judges concurring, the writer hereof alone dissenting. I afterward became Chief Justice of the court. So far as I am advised, the illustrious ex-Chief Justice of New York and the humble ex-Chief Justice of Kentucky are the only Judges that have ever held that the common law was violated by such combination. (See case of Aetna Insurance Company vs. Commonwealth 109 Ky. 871; also 51 S. W. 624 for a full report of this case.)

The significance of Judge Parker's statement is that it can be taken by the monopolists and trusts that he will not favor any legislation suppressing or punishing them for any combination they may enter into. Section 197 of the Constitution of Kentucky says that no railroad, steamboat, or other common carrier, under heavy penalty, to be fixed by the General Assembly, shall give a free pass or passes, or shall furnish tickets at rates not common to the public to any officer, and provides that any officer accepting the same shall forfeit his office. Then follows these words: "It shall be the duty of the General Assembly to enact laws to enforce the provision of this section."

The Democrats, except one session, have controlled the Legislature ever since the adoption of the Constitution in 1891, and have disregarded the above provision and left the common carriers free to debauch officials by giving free passes. Last winter a Republican offered a bill to enforce said section. The committee never would report it until forced to do so, then reported it adversely, but by a hard fight the Republican member got a reading of the bill ordered and it placed on the calendar, but never could get a vote on it. The House was Democratic by about seventy-six majority. I want to say that I believe the masses of the Democrats are a good as the masses of the Republicans; but the trouble is that the Democrats always vote for the nominee of the party unless that nominee is an advocate of the interests and rights of the masses, and is a man who, it is believed, will stand for what he preaches. Bryan's nomination and one other instance of Democratic leadership holding is all that I now recall. The other I will not name, Kentuckians can readily recall it.

I think the foregoing sufficiently shows that no man can depend on the Democratic party for the enactment of any law for the benefit of the people.

I now propose to show that the Democratic party has for many years been the deadly and insidious foe of all attempts to organize a new party. I was present as a delegate at the Greenback convention in 1876, when Peter Cooper was nominated. We polled less than 100,000 votes in the nation that year, the Democrats ignoring us, but in 1877 and 1878 we became a factor in many States, holding largely the balance of power. Now mark what happened. In 1878 the Democratic party of Michigan resolved in favor of gold and silver and paper convertible into coin on demand. The result of the election was that the Democrats polled about 75,000 votes and the Greenbackers about 7,000. The next winter the Democrats adopted the Greenback platform and procured a fusion ticket for Regents and Supreme Judge. The ticket was defeated. The fusion was kept up for some time, and resulted in the Democrats once getting control of the State, but destroyed the Greenback organization there and

QUOTATIONS

From The Republican Campaign Text-Book for 1904.

"The true welfare of the nation is indissolubly bound up with the welfare of the farmer and the wage-worker—the man who tills the soil, and of the mechanic, the handicraftsman, the laborer. If we can insure the prosperity of these two classes we need not trouble ourselves about the prosperity of the rest, for that will follow as a matter of course."—Vice President Roosevelt at opening of Pan-American Exposition, May 29, 1911.

"It is, of course a mere truism that we want to use everything in our power to foster the welfare of our entire body politic. In other words, we need to treat the tariff as a business proposition, from the standpoint of the interest of the country as a whole, and not with reference to the temporary needs of any political party."—President Roosevelt at Minneapolis, April 4 1913.

"Our average fellow-citizen is a sane and healthy man, who believes in decency and has a wholesome mind. He therefore feels an equal scorn alike for the man of wealth guilty of the mean and base spirit of arrogance towards those who are less well-off, and for the man of small means, who in his turn either feels or seeks to excite in others the feeling of mean and base envy for those who are better off."—President Roosevelt at Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 7, 1913.

"There is no worse enemy of the wage-worker than the man who condones mob violence in any shape, or who preaches class hatred; and surely, the slightest acquaintance with our industrial history should teach even the most short-sighted that the times when business is stagnant, and capital suffers from shrinkage and gets no return from its investment, are exactly the times of hardship and want and grim disaster among the people."—Pres. Roosevelt at Syracuse N. Y., Sept. 7, 1913.

"It is almost as necessary that our policy should be stable as that it should be wise. A nation like ours could not long stand the ruinous policies of readjusting its business to radical changes in the tariff at short intervals, especially when, as now, owing to the immense extent and variety of our products, the tariff schedules carry rates of duty on thousands of different articles."—President Roosevelt at Minneapolis, April 4 1903.

"This is an era of great combinations both of labor and of capital. In many ways these combinations have worked for good, but they must work under the law.—Pres. Roosevelt at Charleston, April 3, 1912.

What The Earth Produces.

The earth has nourished us through unknown ages of human existence. Is it not true that the earth supplies us with everything that we really require for existence? Have you ever thought that it is probable that the earth supplies us with the means to keep our bodily vigor, our health, if we only knew it? The animals know by instinct what is good for them and will search until they find in some plant what they need for correcting indigestion or constipation, etc. Is it, therefore, not possible that there are roots and herbs supplied by nature which will cure the diseases that afflict human kind? That is why Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has such faith in his "Medical Discovery." Years ago, when he was in general and active practice, he found that a combination of certain herbs and roots made into an alternative extract, without the use of alcohol, would always put the stomach into a healthy condition, nourish the tissues, feed the blood and nerves and put healthy tone into the whole system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

1. Royalty, Esq., Justice of the Peace, Lexington, Ky. for 29 years, writes: "I am satisfied that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will give permanent relief, and cure any one who may be suffering from stomach and liver trouble, which as a rule are the result of bowel difficulties. My experience with the above-named medicine was most satisfactory. It soon had my system well regulated and toned up, and I have felt in splendid health and spirits ever since."

To gain knowledge of your own body—in sickness and health—send for the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A book of 1008 pages. Send 21 cents in stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. W. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Good Things for the Housewife to Know.

To prevent rugs from curling at the corners bind them on the under edge with a piece of narrow webbing like that used to hold furniture springs in place.

Box eggs are very liable to crack when being boiled. If you stick a pin carefully through each end before boiling, you need have no fear of them cracking in the pan.

When boiling old potatoes add a little milk to the water in which they are boiled. This prevents them turning dark in the cooking and improves the flavor.

To test coffee.—Pour cold water upon it. If it is pure, the water will be very slightly colored; if adulterated with chicory, the water will take a brownish hue.

Hard brushes may be rendered soft by allowing them to soak for twenty-four hours in raw flaxseed oil. After this, rinse them out in hot turpentine, and, if necessary, repeat the whole process.

Keeping flowers fresh—Always clip off the tips of the stalks before putting them in fresh water, which should be just off the chill. Always have perfectly clean vases. A pinch of charcoal powder in each vase is a good preservative.

Rusty flat-irons can be made clean and as smooth as glass by the use of bees wax and salt. Tie a lump of wax in a piece of cloth, and keep it for the purpose. When the iron is hot, rub it with the wax, and then scour with a paper or cloth sprinkled with salt. Wax the iron again before putting it away, for a little film of wax will prevent the formation of rust.

When hanging clothes to dry, first hang up by the thickest part, waist or neckband, etc., because if hung by the thinner part the water would run into the thicker part, lodge there, and take longer to dry. Second, hang up everything wrong side out, so that any accidental soil will not do so much damage as if it appeared on the right side.

The care of frying-pans—It is a mistake to wash a frying-pan. If any housewife doubts this let her try it and prove the result. The pan should be placed over the fire to melt thoroughly all the fat which has remained in it, and while this is hot be inside of the pan should be well rubbed with clean, soft paper until it is quite clean; the paper must be screwed up and used vigorously. Frying-pans treated in this way will never burn their contents until they are actually worn out.

From 148 to 92 Pounds.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Bachelor Meets a Tramp.

Irving Bacheller recently visited his boyhood home up the state and saw enough new characters to furnish material for a dozen books. While strolling along a lane, he noticed a tramp lying in the shade of a tree. The hobo looked cheerful, and seemed contented, despite his rags. Approaching him, Mr. Bacheller said:

"Did it ever occur to you that some day you may be living in the poor-house?"

"What! Me?" lazily drawled the tramp; "never! I don't want to become one of them bloated officeholders. Say boss, do I look like a man who'd ask my country to support me as long as I can get my own living?"

The Stomach is the Man.

A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, cleanses and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

King Edward's Brag.

Clyde Fitch, after a long stay in Switzerland, has returned to his country house at Forth Crisob, Conn. He said there the other day:

"Anecdotes of Whistler are still turning up. Europe, from one end to the other, still hums with a dead American painter's name. But it was in Paris that I heard the best Whistler story."

"They told me that Whistler was in Paris at the time of the coronation of the King of England, and one evening at a reception at the Hotel Ritz a Duchess said to him:

"Do you know King Edward, Mr. Whistler?"

"Madame," said the painter.

"She looked surprised."

"Why, that is odd," she murmured. "I met the King at a dinner party last year, and he said that he knew you."

"Oh," said Whistler, "that was only his brag."

WE HEAR it said that Democrats do not die in office. They are nearly dying to get in.

THE Republican party redeems its promises. The Democratic party always offers new ones.

DEMOCRATS are quoting from President Roosevelt's published works. They will stand the test. So much cannot be said of the published record of the Democratic party.

IT WOULD be interesting to hear Candidate Parker in joint debate with himself as to whether he was right in 1896 and 1900 or right now.

IT is said that Governor Beckham and his machine manipulators are not very actively supporting the Parker ticket. Their jealousy of National Committeeman, Woodson, causes an unusual quiet in their camp.

DEMOCRATS say that the present system of protective tariff is robbery. The best proof of the fallacy of such a statement can be had by referring to Cleveland's last administration, when a tariff for revenue only law was in effect.

QUITE a number of Democratic papers published under startling headlines a letter from Candidate Parker to the author of the Democratic campaign text book, in which he asks that President Roosevelt's personal honor and integrity be left unattacked. If these same papers would act as manly as their candidate in the matter their chances of electing their man would be materially enhanced.

WHEW! How the editor of a certain alleged newspaper "do puff himself." Here's what he says. "It is a pleasure to discuss public questions in an amicable way with a contemporary who appears able and willing to meet a fair question with a straightforward answer—as is the Herald's custom." Ability to throw at the birds; and willingness to deal fairly. Ah! Hueb! Don't mention it!

REASONS for voting for Roosevelt are very simple. Judge William H. Barnes a lifelong Democrat of Jacksonville, Ill., and once Federal Judge of Arizona, under an appointment of Grover Cleveland, assigns the following reasons for being for Roosevelt: "I am for Theodore Roosevelt for President. I am for Roosevelt because he does things. I am for the principles advocated by the Republican party because I think they mean the development, expansion and building up of the greatest nation on earth—and, first of all, I am an American."

WE are assured by Democrats that the country will take no risk in again placing them in power. They say the money question has been settled and the tariff laws won't be changed during the four years Parker would serve if elected. They practically admit that the Republicans have everything in good shape and all they (the Democrats) want is a chance at the offices. They want the voters to turn the well-established and smoothly-running business of the country over to new managers. The American people will be slow to believe that such a change would be a safe and sane thing to do.

A GREAT many newspapers of the small caliber, blackmailing type are attempting a great tirade against President Roosevelt because he once said that the best way to keep peace is to "speak softly and carry a big stick," meaning thereby that the United States, though kind and obliging to all other countries should always be prepared for the worst even if it should never come. Every President has, in one form or another, in word or deed or both, held the self same doctrine. In fact every citizen, it matters not what be his station in life, acts on the principle that to be secure he must be protected. Why does every community incur the expense of providing for peace officers, police and sheriffs but to stay the lawless and protect the individuals of such community? If it is proper for towns, counties and States to provide ample means of protection, why not have ample means of protecting the whole country and the public property thereof? The people generally do not take to this pitiful hue and cry against the President for his action in throttling outlawry and preventing the encroachments of other countries. The American people have always approved the maintenance of the rightful supremacy of their country and have oftentimes approved the same principle spoken of by the President when he used the "big stick" phrase. They approved it when Washington drove the British from our soil, when Taylor and Scott overcame the Mexicans, when Grant defeated the forces of disunion and when McKinley drove the Spaniards from the American soil and by the "big stick" theory upheld the country's flag.

THE GREAT FAIR.

More Attractions at Ohio County Fair Than Ever Before-- Large Crowd.

The Ohio County Fair opened Wednesday with the largest attendance for the first day that was ever recorded. At an early hour people began to pour in from all directions and by 9:30 when Ajax, the famous high diver leaped from the topmost part of the bridge, spanning Rough river into the water below, the crowd had become immense. Yesterday's crowd was even larger than that of Wednesday, and the indications are that to-day and to-morrow will be record breakers in point of attendance. There is every reason to expect a well attended fair this year. The premium list has more than been doubled and various attractions that have not heretofore been a part of the fair are here this year. Ajax who preforms the thrilling feat of jumping from the top of a tower eighty feet high into a tank of water only four feet deep, the reptified man which was found a few years ago on the sandy beach of the Ohio river near Evansville, the merry-go-round, the snake eater, several shows and various other amusements. There are more and better stock to enter the contest for the various premiums this year than ever attended before. It is a great fair in every respect.

WOMEN SPIES

Are Largely Employed by Both Japan and Russia.

[Chicago News.]

In no part of the world has the art of the woman spy been brought so near perfection as in Europe. In Russia dashing, beautiful women, of high breeding and title, perhaps, have become the necessary sign of that underground system which appears to read thoughts as well as to detect designs. At the present time the secret service of both Russia and Japan is naturally most active, and it must not be forgotten that Japan, too, has made use of women to ferret out the intentions of the Russian government regarding the present war. They are not, as a rule, however, Japanese women, who are singularly unfitted for the delicate task. To meet the Russian spy on his or her own ground the Japanese have it is said, secured the services of some of the cleverest women in Europe, many of them French women, and often their visible means of support is acting. The Japanese police and military system has, of course, its secret service, but it is not nearly so ubiquitous as is the so-called third section of the Russian police. Yet during the past few years there has little of importance transpired in Europe affecting the situation in the far East of which the Japanese foreign office has long been ignorant.

During the early part of last winter, when the relations between Russia and Japan were becoming more strained with each successive day, St. Petersburg society discovered there were several very beautiful Parisiennes in the city. They were not only very beautiful, but charming, and most of them fell in love with young officers of rank. They had letters of introduction and were warmly welcomed in official circles. One night at a ball given at one of the legations one of the charming French women was present. She was very friendly with a colonel of a Russian regiment and several times she ineffectually attempted to draw him into a conversation, the burden of which was the length of time he expected to be detained in St. Petersburg, for it was a frequent occurrence for a regiment to be sent to the Far East. At each attempt she was interrupted by a dashing Russian woman. On discovering the identity of the latter she knew her mission was at an end, for she had been detected by a clever Russian spy.

In Paris the Nihilists meet unobstructed by police, but their every movement is reported to the "third section" in St. Petersburg. A few years ago a certain "Mlle. Sense" was in Washington. She spoke the purest Parisian and readily passed for a French woman. In Russia she is Mme. Siltzki, one of the cleverest of the czar's woman spies. In Washington she gave lessons in French to children in several of the embassies and learned much to interest her government.

Diplomacy Explained.

"Will you give me, sir, a good definition of diplomacy?" a reporter said to the Spanish Minister to America, Emilio de Ojeda.

"Instead of a definition, I'll give you an illustration," the diplomat replied. And, smiling a little, he began:

"There was a certain tenant farmer who waited on his land lord one morning in great distress of mind.

"I have bad news to report to you, sir," he said.

"The landlord looked up from his newspaper with a scowl.

"Bad news?" he said. "Bad news? Bad news of what sort?"

"The tenant rubbed one foot over the other, and twisted his dusty cap nervously in his huge hands.

"A terrible sort, sir," he faltered. "Your black bull and my black bull got to fighting this morning, and my black bull gored yours to death."

"I hold you responsible," the landlord cried, excitedly, and he jumped up from his chair and paced back and forth at a tremendous gait. "I hold you responsible, farmer."

"But, sir," the tenant objected, "you can't say I was to blame. The two bulls got together, they fought, and one was killed. That is all there was to it. How was I to blame?"

"I am a Justice of the Peace," said the landlord. "I know the law, and the law says in plain terms that the owners of dangerous animals are responsible for the damage that they do. Your bull killed mine, farmer, and you must make good the loss to me. That is the law."

"That is the law, is it, sir?" said the tenant.

"That is the law."

"All right, sir; I will stand by the law. But"—and here the tenant, a true diplomat, permitted himself to smile faintly—but, sir, I was guilty of a slight mistake when I said my bull killed yours. It was your bull, sir, that killed mine."

POLITICAL REVIEW.

damaged it elsewhere, and the Republican party became stronger than ever before in Michigan.

In September, 1883, the Greenbackers elected the Governor in Maine, Plavsted, but the Democratic National Committee claimed it as a Democratic victory, and proceeded to secure a fusion electoral ticket for the November election. It was defeated, but the result was the substantial death of the Greenback party in Maine and serious damage to it elsewhere. Similar disastrous results followed fusion in Iowa, Ohio and other States. Finally, the climax was reached when, in 1884, Ben Butler was nominated by the Greenback party for President. Butler was then a delegate to the Democratic convention soon to be held in Chicago, and had the indorsement of the Massachusetts Democrats for President. I was a delegate to that Greenback convention, so it may be said that I was at the birth and also at the death of the Greenback party.

Democrats claiming to be Greenbackers, and possibly some honest but misguided Greenbackers, procured these fusions. It is evident that fusion must of necessity kill or destroy any new party, and it is but fair to assume that a man intends, and desires, that which his acts will most likely produce.

In 1891 the People's party was ushered into being at Cincinnati, O. I happened to be a delegate to that convention. A prominent Populist stated in that convention that he was in a position to know that the money power would next year make the fight, with Cleveland as its leader. It so turned out. Events however showed that the old serpent of fusion was still alive, and he invaded our ranks and procured fusion electoral tickets in States where the Democrats alone had no chance to carry, although the only effect of such fusion would help Cleveland, for if the election had gone to Congress it would surely have elected Cleveland.

After the struggle of 1893 I decided that the battle of free silver had been fought out and that we had lost. I therefore return to the Republican party to stay, at least until the death of the Democratic party.

The Populist party in 1896 boldly nominated Bryan. The result need not be stated. The party has this year nominated Watson, and yet has fused in Nebraska and other States on a State ticket with the Parker Democracy. It would seem that Bryan and his crowd ought to support Watson, but they are far from it. It is suggested that the Nebraska fusion will result in Bryan's election to the Senate. Such a result would only help the Democratic party; could not possibly benefit the Populists nor forward any reform measure.

I know of no instance where fusion has made a Populist or Greenbacker out of a Democrat, but do know of many instances where Populists and Greenbackers entered the fusion camp and came out Democrats.

I always opposed fusion, and foretold what the result would be. Much more might be said in support of my contentions, but I deem the foregoing sufficient. B. L. D. GUFFY.

A Power For Good.

The Pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased. Mr. D. Knoble, of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me." Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure. Bottles only, $1.00. The List of the Presidents of the United States.

Columbia great and noble son,
The patriotic Washington,
Was chosen the chief to be
Of this great land he fought to free

From that tyrannic, pondering foe
Whose rule brought misery and woe.

The people next John Adams chose;
Then Jefferson to power rose;

James Madison, Great Britain's foe;
And then the famous James Monroe.

John Quincy Adams ruled the realm
Four years, then Jackson took the helm

And safely steered the ship of state
Through tempests raised by traitors' hate.

From thirty-seven to forty-one
Van Buren held the prize he won.

Harrison's rule came to an end
In one short month, and then his friend,

Vice President Tyler, took the chair,
And filled the seat with wisdom rare.

The next who rose to power, we see,
Was James K. Polk, of Tennessee.

Soon after Taylor won the race;
Millard Fillmore took his place.

Next Pierce, New Hampshire's favorite son;
Buchanan then to sixty-one.

Abe Lincoln, loved, revered by all,
Was shot by an assassin's ball.

From sixty-six to sixty-nine
Did Andrew Jackson's talents shine

In the great office, higher far
Than that of Emperor, King or Czar.

When next to Grant the honor came,
His successor was R. B. Hayes;

James Garfield, who, ere many days,
Was foully murdered, history says

Was great and good, and never proud,
With noble traits was he endowed.

Arthur in eighteen eighty-one
Assumed the place which Garfield won.

Cleveland, the Democrat pet,
The country left enormous debt.

Ben Harrison was prudent, fair,
While in the Presidential chair.

McKinley, Ohio's brilliant son,
Was killed in nineteen hundred and one.

Then Roosevelt took the vacant place,
And now again he's in the race—

May he succeed this year, I pray,
Be victor on election day.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffered one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without getting any relief, when my friend, Mr. C. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind. Largest Egg Farm.

What is said to be the largest egg farm in the world is one owned and managed by C. E. L. Hayward at Hancock, N. H. According to the Rural New York it has at this time over 3,400 hens, kept in 600 small houses, fourteen in each. The hens are never allowed outside their eight foot square coops, and are never fed green feed, contrary to the teachings of all other poultry keepers. Each hen gets about a quarter of a pound per day of beef scraps, gluten, hominy feed, wheat, etc., with a little salt, ground shells, grit and charcoal, and plenty of clean water. They average 100 eggs each during the year, for which the high average of 26 cents a dozen is received, or a total of $2.17. It costs about $1.17 each for feed so that the profit on each hen is about $1. The droppings go to fertilize a large orchard and are a source of profit. Only young hens are kept; the second year they are sold and pullets bought for the next year's egg crop.

Only did his Duty as he Saw it.

I deem it a duty to add a word of praise for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says J. Wiley Park the well known merchant and postmaster at Wiley, Ky. "I have been selling it for three or four years, and it gives complete satisfaction. Several of my customers tell me they would not do without it for anything. Very often, to my knowledge one single dose has cured a severe attack of diarrhoea, and I positively know that it cures the flux (dysentery) You are at liberty to use this testimonial as you pleased." MUTILATED BODY

Found on Dissecting Table of
St. Louis Hospital.Death of William Hampton in St.
Louis Shrouded in Mystery.

Much mystery is connected with the death of William Hampton, of St. Louis, Breathitt county, which occurred in St. Louis several days ago, and members of his family will go at once to the World's Fair City in an effort to unravel the case. Monday, September 5, Hampton, accompanied by J. C. Hurst, of Breathitt county, started to St. Louis, to visit the fair. They arrived in St. Louis at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. According to the story of Hurst, who brought the remains to his home, upon alighting from the train at the Union Depot in St. Louis, Hampton discovered that he had left a package in the car. Hurst volunteered to get it for him, leaving Hampton standing on the platform in the rear of the train. After going through the long line of coaches to the smoking compartment and getting the package, Mr. Hurst returned to where Hampton was left. That found that he was gone. Supposing that he was not far away, Hurst did not think much of the matter, but after waiting for some time for the return of his friend, he grew alarmed and began a search for him. For seven days he searched the city of St. Louis, visiting all the hotels, hospitals and every place where he thought Hampton could possibly be. He was finally rewarded after the long search by finding the dead body of Hampton in a temporary hospital on a dissecting table under the supervision of some medical students. Mr. Hurst immediately took charge of the body and started for his Kentucky home. The dead man is one of the most prominent business men in the mountain section of the State, and his mysterious death has aroused the people of that section of the State, as well as in his home county, and every assistance will be given the family to ferret out the mystery.

Editor REPUBLICAN:

I send my thanks to you for a bundle of papers. Yesterday's mail, via General Blanco from Iloilo, is my first mail from the United States, though I've been here forty days, in the Islands. All things seem to come flooding like our long delayed rains of this week.

For many weeks the bright green banana leaf has pointed to skies of purest blue and the glaring sun has poured down her blistering rays in scorching defiance of the anxious, "pobre" rice farmer. Let us hope the rains have come soon enough and rain enough for the planting of rice.

We are having some encouraging interest in our school work, but we need more energy in the fields as well. I am going out to the pueblo of Dumalog, on the last Saturday in August, to take charge of the public school of that town and to supervise such barrio (village) schools as I may be able to establish.

There has been one American teacher in Dumalog about six weeks. You may guess I will commence near the bottom in the work at that place.

HALF NAKED WOMAN

Roams About in Union County Subsisting on Corn.Believed to be Wife of Henry Law-
Weeks Ago.

Morganfield, Ky., Sept. 20.—Four weeks ago Mrs. Henry Lawrence, one of the best known women of Union County suddenly disappeared from her home situated in the center of a large and fine farm. She left a note to her husband saying that she had "on the spur of the moment" decided to go to Evansville to visit relatives. That she was going from Evansville to West Plains.

Days and weeks passed and the anxious husband received no word from his wife. She left behind several young children. Letters to West Plains and Evansville revealed the fact that Mrs. Lawrence had not been to the home of her relatives.

County Judge Clements, of Union county, has received the following letter, which, it is believed, throws considerably light on the disappearance of Mrs. Lawrence.

"There is great excitement in the Uniontown neighborhood over a wild woman being seen in the thickets and woods. You know Mrs. Lawrence acted rather strange before she left and this woman has been seen just about four weeks. I think this matter should be looked into. Several claim to have seen the wild woman and say she is almost without clothes. Her tracks show that she is wearing on one foot the shoe of a man and on other a woman's shoe. In the last day or two it is seen that she is only wearing one shoe. They tracked her through the corn field, where she gnaws corn. Several of those who have seen the wild woman declare that she resembles a barbarian of the dark ages. That she is about the stature of Mrs. Lawrence.

For Piles, Burns, Sores.

A wonderfully true picture of the contrasting lives of our own Southwest and England is given by Lloyd Osbourne in the October McClure's in the story of "Glass Eyed Bill." That worthy, the scion of a noble English house, wanders through the United States, reckless and dissolute, until he finds his salvation at the hands of a girl on a California ranch. Then come the claims of family and the past, but love and the present win, and you are glad of it.

He Knows a Good Thing.

A workingman writes to the New York Press saying: As for Democratic soup houses of 1896 I can bear witness, for I fell from $17 a week as draughtsman to selling clothing on installments; was out five months. I learned the lesson of my life that fall and put in my first Republican vote for McKinley and prosperity. To-day my wages are $30 a week and full time all the time.
